

MORNING APPEAL.

TUESDAY..... APRIL 22

WAKING UP.

Since the California newspapers had their last editorial convention at Sacramento, they have become painfully aware of the fact that they are getting considerably imposed on by designing men Nevada newspapers used to be in the same boat, but they have learned a little wisdom of late.

The Alameda Encinal has the following:

Some six months ago, the Chico Enterprise published an article concerning an electric clock, the invention of a San Francisco man, for which the Enterprise received not one cent of pay, but which article, by being copied into 10,000 circulars, has made this electric clock famous, and as a consequence its manufacture is now vastly profitable to the inventor. Sundry of the Northern papers have taken the matter in hand, and their comments are anything but complimentary to the people who use the newspaper columns for their benefit, without recompense to the publishers. There is too much of this free puffing nowadays.

Upon this subject the Grass Valley Telegraph says:

The papers in the mining regions are called upon to tell of some man's new machine to save gold or to run mills, or do some other good thing. The country papers, with innocence of heart, puff all such and never get a cent for it; the man sells his machine and never thinks of the type and the ink that helped him to make his sale. There is a certain water wheel in use in these mining regions that the papers have made so famous that no rival wheel can get a hearing. The wheel manufacturers are making money. The water of newspaper puffery was poured on that wheel with lavishness and caused the wheel to begin its prosperous career. Let the country newspaper ask the wheel company for an advertisement, and the reply is "we are sufficiently advertised in your section." And so it is with other things and machines and inventions. The city papers do not act in that way. They get paid for the benefits they confer, and they are right.

And now comes the Red Bluff Sentinel, which says:

It is about time the country press, so called, has waked up to the fact that it is doing more work for less pay—no pay at all—than any class of men in the world. This is a matter that the Central and Northern California Press Association should look into the next session. Every line of matter set up and printed in a newspaper office cost hard coin, and the publisher is just as much entitled to pay for his work as a grocer is for every pound of tea, coffee, sugar, etc., he has in his store. Not one in every hundred recognize the fact that "puffs" cost money, and that no class of business men, except the publishers, ever think or dream of giving away their goods, chattels, wares and merchandise for the benefit of the country, or as a matter of news to the public, but it takes coin to run a newspaper.

A club recently formed in Oakland for social purposes and called itself the "Cookoo Club." The papers suggest that if the members knew the true significance of the term they would conclude to adopt something else. If the society scandals of Oakland are any criterion it would seem that they have unconsciously hit upon the very name of all others that is appropriate. See published works of William Shakespeare and other old authors.

It appears that the Detroit breweries which were purchased by an English syndicate last Spring, have not been successful under the new ownership. The reason given for the falling off in business is that the patriotic people of Michigan refuse to buy their beer of a foreign corporation.

THE BIENIAL CHESTNUT.—Every county in the State should send to the Legislature its best, most intelligent and trustworthy men, for no one will care to deny the fact that never in the history of the much-abused State has there been more need for honest legislation than now.—Exchange.

Every two years this paragraph floats around the papers. 'Bout time to shelve this chestnut.

It takes two carloads of paper every year made in the East and shipped across the Continent to print the Illustrated Catalogue of WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & Co., Retailers Sacramento. Four or five fast steam presses are used in printing; and thousands of dollars are expended for engravings, editing, printing, mailing, etc.

And what does it all mean? Back of it all there is a great truth. It pays to send to them for whatever you need to wear.

This Catalogue (free to any address) places their great stock at your very doors. It lets you select at leisure and select what you wish. It does not over-persuade you to buy what your judgment the next day will tell you is an unwise purchase. You can make out your order, lay it aside for a day or two, then review it and see if it still seems a wise one. Do salesmen give you this privilege?

If goods are not as ordered, you are at liberty to return them at their expense and get your money back.
